

U E.K.Sparks
Fall 1999
2:30 3:45 MW
Martin 104

Research Project for Engl 209

J You will build a small web site, including a short (4-6 pp.) paper.

Doing this project will involve reading a book (a novel or play or collection of poems at least 20-50 pp.) not covered in the class.

Your paper will compare and contrast major themes in the outside work to themes discussed in class. I will give you a list of supplemental readings with some possible paper topics, and will review the basics of writing a literary analysis paper in class on Wednesday, September 15.

This paper will not require the use of library resources or reading of literary criticism; it will just be you thinking about reading.

The website will include your paper, an introduction to your author, and some links to other resources on the Web as well as anything else you can think of. Sample web sites can be accessed from the class home page.